March 29th

Monday evening

My own dear Will,

While you are "scrubbing" I will write a little line of welcome to the ship to be waiting for you - just to tell you that my thoughts will follow you as well as they can on the various stages of your journey and that I shall picture you in the various uniforms I have seen you pack-way off in those remote un regions. Dear man, it makes me very lonesome to be writing to you, though you are only fifty or sixty feet away, but I shall think of some of the many happy times we have had in this dear little home, or at Embreeville & Dublin, and 1601 K Street - & be very thankful and hope for more.

And now I must scramble to dress or, as usual, I shall be five minutes late for dinner.

God bless you safe, my dear one, and give you His own strength and peace and joy and bring you back to - your own loving Pam.

A hundred thanks for you and a thankful of love.
