CURRENT STRATEGY FORUM

THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY WASHINGTON

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

It is with great pleasure that I extend to you an invitation to participate in the 1984 Current Strategy Forum at the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island. This year's Forum, the thirty-fifth in the series, will pay particular attention to "Sea Power in Peace: the Navy and Marine Corps in Deterrence and Crisis."

The Forum is designed to promote an interchange of ideas between students at the Naval War College and a wide spectrum of civilian and military guests. The College uses the seminar method in its teaching and this approach will be used at this Forum to examine and discuss the central theme, the speakers' perspectives and the views of participants. Your participation and contribution in the Forum will greatly assist us in meeting our objectives of examining the role of the Navy and Marine Corps in current strategy.

Throughout its thirty-five years, the Current Strategy Forum has performed a valuable service in promoting an exchange of ideas between the Navy and the civilian community.

I hope you will join us in Newport.

CURRENT STRATEGY FORUM

NAVAL WAR COLLEGE NEWPORT, R.I.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

On behalf of the Secretary of the Navy, it is a distinct honor to welcome you to the thirty-fifth Current Strategy Forum. During the course of the Forum in this our centennial year, a distinguished group of guest speakers will discuss the roles of sea power in peacetime crises and the functions which the Navy and Marine Corps fulfill as deterrents to general war. I think that you will find this a stimulating and timely exchange of views, which you will have the opportunity to discuss in small, informal and off-the-record seminars.

The man responsible for establishing this forum was Rear Admiral C.R. Brown, then Chief of Staff at the Naval War College. A perceptive thinker on naval strategy, Admiral Brown went on to command the Sixth Fleet and to earn his fourth star as Commander in Chief, Allied Forces Southern Europe. Admiral Brown died on 8 December 1983. In recognition of his enduring contribution to the College, it is appropriate for us to recall his words to the first such gathering of civilians and military at the Naval War College in 1949:

“ . . . we have sought to create an atmosphere of inquisitiveness, reason and tolerance—an atmosphere of academic freedom—where people can exchange their thoughts; giving freely of their own best ideas and learning much from the other man . . . . What we are seeking most earnestly is to demonstrate that it is possible for men of good will to sit down together regardless of the color of, or lack of, a uniform.”

This forum is the high point of our academic year and is regarded by our students and faculty as a splendid opportunity to test skills in analysis and self-expression developed during the year. The interchange between guests and students affords a splendid opportunity to develop a better mutual understanding of common concerns. I look forward to being your host in Newport.

JAMES E. SERVICE
Rear Admiral, U.S. Navy

1984 CURRENT STRATEGY FORUM

19-21 JUNE 1984

THEME "SEA POWER IN PEACE: THE NAVY AND MARINE CORPS IN DETERRENCE AND CRISIS."

BACKGROUND

The Current Strategy Forum had its origin from Round Table Discussions first held in May 1949 for the purpose of bringing together a small number of prominent civilian and military guests with officers of the Naval War College to discuss future strategy of the United States. In 1951 under Vice Admiral Richard L. Conolly, then President of the Naval War College, the program was expanded to include a broader base of civilian guests, and gained Secretary of the Navy sponsorship under a more appropriate title of Global Strategy Discussions. Redesigned around a free and open exchange of views on major national and international issues presented by distinguished speakers, the event has established itself as an important highlight of each academic year. Another significant change in program format was made in 1973 by selection of a specific theme for each event thus narrowing the focus from broad policy discussions to a forum pointed toward examination of a current issue of strategic national importance. The Current Strategy Forum thus evolved from a concept which, despite shifts in title and scope, has retained its original overall purpose and objectives to provide a forum for the open exchange of educated civil-military viewpoints on important national issues.

PLANNING AND PARTICIPATION

Initial planning and organization for the Current Strategy Forum begins each fall with the collection of nominations for attendance by the College's Special Events Office. Nominations are typically received from past CSF attendees, students, faculty and staff, Secretary of the Navy's Office of Legislative Affairs, Chief of Naval Information, the Naval War College Foundation, the Navy League and numerous friends of the Naval War College. Contrary to some beliefs, prior military service or government affiliation are not prerequisites for selection of a nominee for invitation, rather the potential contribution a nominee might make or gain from attendance is considered foremost. Prospective attendee lists are screened to insure that invitations are extended to an appropriate regional and occupational mix of civilians prominent in their fields, together with Navy flag officers and flag/general officers from other services. A theme is selected and a program developed for CNO/SECNAV approval. Preparations continue upon approval of the program with guest speaker invitations, production of printed materials and, of course, mailing of invitations to selected nominees.

THEME

This year the Current Strategy Forum will focus on "Sea Power in Peace: The Navy and Marine Corps in Deterrence and Crisis." Complementing the Secretary of the Navy's remarks at the Forum, a series of distinguished guest speakers will examine specific aspects of the theme. These include a historical analysis of the use of sea power in peacetime, strategic concepts which lie behind these types of operations, the problem of terrorism and the future of power projection. This mixture of historical and theoretical discussion should complement and illuminate the problems which the Navy and the Marine Corps face in current issues and in developing plans for future operations.

PROGRAM

To assist in the appraisal of the theme, the Current Strategy Forum program will include a series of addresses by distinguished individuals carefully selected for their expertise in specific areas. A question and answer period will follow each address, time permitting. Alternating with the addresses in Spruance Auditorium will be informal seminars consisting of 20-30 students and guests with a faculty moderator. This lecture/seminar method is similar to that employed by all academic departments at the Naval War College. We have experienced that seminars add interesting dimensions to examination of the CSF theme and, while the actual discussion time is relatively short, permit all participants to enjoy greater perspective of the theme and complexity of the issues.

GENERAL INFORMATION

PERSONAL INVITATION

The invitation sent to you with this brochure is a personal one and is not transferable.

COMMUNICATIONS:

Naval War College telephone numbers are:

Prior to 9 a.m., 16 June 1984

CSF Information, (401) 841-2271/4527

After 9 a.m., 16 June 1984

CSF Command Center, (401) 841-3550/3500

A limited number of telephones will be available in, or adjacent to, Spruance Auditorium lobby for guest's convenience in making outgoing business calls during the Forum.

GUEST EXPENSES

Guests are expected to pay for their own travel, meals and accommodations, as the Navy is not permitted to assume these expenses. Local transportation will be provided, however, on a limited basis.

REGISTRATION FEE

A registration fee of $10.00 is requested from each guest to defray costs of a seminar luncheon, coffee and other amenities. It is suggested that the registration fee be forwarded with your acceptance to help us avoid administrative congestion when you arrive at the Naval War College. Fees will be returned on request in the event of your cancellation. Please make checks payable to Current Strategy Forum or CSF, and return with the A, B sections of the Administrative Data Card.

ARRIVAL ARRANGEMENTS

The postage-paid CSF Administrative Data Card enclosed along with this information booklet contains two sections to be returned: Section A, biographical data and Section B, travel/accommodations information. Please complete and mail as early as possible. Prompt return will enable the administrative staff to make necessary and timely arrangements for your visit. The return of both your RSVP card and Sections A and B of the Administrative Data Card will serve as a confirmation of your intentions to attend CSF-84.

GUEST ACCOMMODATIONS

The Naval War College has reserved blocks of rooms at local hotels for CSF guests. We expect to be able to hold these rooms until 5 June. As indicated in the Administrative Data Card, guests may request the Naval War College to make a reservation in their name; however, it is preferred that guests make their own arrangements with hotels. In either case, reservations should be requested and confirmed by a deposit as early as possible. With CSF scheduled immediately prior to Naval War College graduation and during the Newport to Bermuda Race, hotel reservations may be difficult to obtain if you delay. To assist guests, a separate listing of hotels holding room blocks and their rates, plus other recommended hotels/rates, is provided in the invitation package.

TRAVEL TO NEWPORT

Commercial Air: Eastern, United, US Air, Piedmont, and Ransome Airlines provide regularly scheduled air service into T.F. Green Airport, Providence. This is the closest large airport to Newport and we urge you to plan flight itineraries for arrival/departure there if possible.

To assist you with return air travel, a reservations clerk from the Scheduled Air Line Ticket Office (SATO) will be present in Conolly Hall, Room 104.

Private Air: Private and small military aircraft may land at the Newport State Airport which is only 4 miles from the Naval War College. The airport has two runways 3000 and 2600 feet respectively. Currently, fuel service is available daily except Mondays and Tuesdays. State personnel are on duty 24 hours a day and guard UNICOM at 122.8 MHZ. Telephone for Newport Airport is (401) 846-2200.

Private and military aircraft may also land at Quonset State Airport across Narragansett Bay from Newport. Quonset has two runways, 8000 and 3000 feet respectively. Personnel are on duty at the airport 24 hours a day. Civilian fuel service is available through a local facility, 0800-1700. Military fuel service is available at the Air National Guard side, Monday-Friday, 0730-1630. The control tower operates from 0700-2300 (121.2 MHZ) and UNICOM (122.8 MHZ) is available 2300-0700. Lighting for the 8000 foot runway can be activated by the tower, UNICOM, or an installed MALSR system which operates on the tower frequency. Operations at Quonset State can be contacted at (401) 294-4504.

Rental Autos: Due to the heavy volume of tourist business in Newport, advance reservations are recommended. Both Hertz and Avis have offices in Newport and other major rental companies have locations at T.F. Green Airport (Providence).

Automobiles: Guests traveling to Newport by automobile from points west may proceed via Route 138 over the Jamestown and Newport Bridges or through Providence on I-195 connecting with Rtes. 24/114 into Newport.

GENERAL INFORMATION

From the Massachusetts Turnpike, Rte. 146 South to Providence will connect with I-195 and Rtes. 24/114 into Newport. Parking areas will be reserved adjacent to the Naval War College for all guests arriving by automobile. For your convenience, a vehicle pass is included as part of the Administrative Data Card (Section C). Please place the vehicle pass in the left front windshield to gain admittance to the Naval Base and War College.

Railroad: AMTRAK provides passenger service to Providence from New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia and connecting service from all other major cities.

Bus: Greyhound service is available from New York to Newport. Bonanza Bus Line service is available between Boston's Logan Airport and Providence. Direct bus service is also available from downtown Boston into Newport. The Rhode Island Public Transit Authority (RIPTA) provides hourly bus service between Providence and Newport.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

CSF will be a concentrated three days of addresses by distinguished speakers, group seminars and social activities, including a reception at the Officers' Club hosted by the Secretary of the Navy. Along with these scheduled events, individual committees traditionally plan for daily luncheons and an evening social get-together. Spouses of guest participants will be included in the evening social events and are welcome to attend addresses in Spruance Auditorium. Space limitations, unfortunately, make it impossible for them to take part in group seminars.

DRESS

- Civilian:* Business suit or sport jacket for men, and afternoon dresses or suits for women are considered appropriate for all events.
- Military:* Navy—Summer White
Army—Tan Combination
Air Force—Combination 4 "A"
Marine Corps—Service "C"
Coast Guard—Tropical Blue

Note: Active duty and reserve personnel attending under orders are encouraged to attend in uniform. Name tags will be provided for all guests.

ESCORTS

A number of officers will be available to assist guest participants in Newport upon their arrival in the area. If you are unfamiliar with the

GENERAL INFORMATION

Newport area and feel that an escort would be helpful, please so indicate on the Administrative Data Card, Section B.

WEATHER

June weather in Newport is usually pleasant with mild days and cool nights. We do suggest, however, that you plan to bring a raincoat or light topcoat in event of an unscheduled spring shower.

U.S. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE

On October 6, 1884, the Secretary of the Navy, William E. Chandler, issued General Order No. 325 establishing "a College for an advanced course of professional study for naval officers, to be known as the Naval War College." Founded in Newport, Rhode Island, the Naval War College is the oldest war college in the nation. Commodore Stephen B. Luce was the first president of the College, and his faculty included a naval professor and an army officer. Today this joint faculty has grown to include officers of all the armed services as well as representatives of appropriate fields in the social and physical sciences. The second president of the War College, a former member of the faculty, was the great naval historian, Captain Alfred Thayer Mahan. His lectures and writings on sea power contributed much to the development of the curriculum and brought prestige to the College.

Functioning continuously since 1884, except for brief periods during the Spanish-American War and World War I, the War College numbers among its graduates such distinguished naval officers as Admirals Sims, Spruance, King, Nimitz, and Halsey, as well as many international naval officers who have held or are presently holding prominent positions in their respective countries.

The mission of the Naval War College is to enhance the professional capabilities of its students to make sound decisions in the highest command and management positions and to conduct research leading to the development of advanced strategic and tactical concepts for the future employment of naval forces.

From its initial, single course of instruction, the Naval War College has evolved into four resident colleges, with approximately 350-400 students selected each year to attend these colleges on the basis of seniority, professional background and nationality. The student body consists of U.S. military officers from all branches of the armed forces, career civilians from a variety of government agencies and international naval officers. The College of Naval Warfare (CNW) is the senior U.S. School, while its counterpart, the Naval Command College (NCC) is the senior international officers' school. The College of Naval Command and Staff (CNC&S) is for middle-grade U.S. officers and career civilians, and the Naval Staff College (NSC) includes mid-career international officers enrolled in a five-month program.

The curriculum is divided into trimesters: Strategy & Policy, the study of fundamental military strategy with emphasis on maritime applications, foreign policy and their interrelationships; Defense Economics and Decision Making, the study of allocation of limited national resources to defense programs consistent with national goals; and Naval Operations, an appreciation and study of naval force employment in execution of naval missions.

The balance between Strategy, DEDM and Naval Operations varies among the resident courses taught at the Naval War College. The senior courses emphasize Strategy, the College of Naval Command and Staff emphasizes Naval Operations and the International Naval Staff College emphasizes the military planning and decision-making process.

U.S. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE

In addition to the four resident schools, the Naval War College extends its academic program off-campus through the Center for Continuing Education in a series of correspondence courses and an Off-Campus Seminar Program. Two, twelve-day Reserve Officer courses in Defense Economics and Strategy and Policy are also offered annually for candidates selected by the Chief of Naval Reserve.

The Center for Naval Warfare Studies was established late in 1981 to provide greater direction to strategic thinking within the Navy. The Center incorporated three existing War College elements—the Center for Advanced Research (CAR), the Center for War Gaming (CWG), and the Naval War College Review—plus a new element, the Strategic Studies Group (SSG), formed under a concept developed by, and in direct support, of the CNO. The SSG is comprised of a small number of hand-picked, Navy and Marine Corps officers who each devote about a year to research and formulation of ideas. CAR provides the opportunity for selected resident students and graduate fellows to pursue advanced strategic and tactical concepts. The CWG, with its expanding, more capable electronic gaming system, provides support to the SSG, the War College curriculum, operational units of the Atlantic Fleet and NATO. The Review provides a means for SSG and CAR fellows to publish their writings as well as a vehicle for printing other articles related to the academic and professional activities of the Naval War College.

COAT OF ARMS

The trident rising from the waves symbolizes mastery of maritime activities. The three tines of the trident allude to the requirement for the fundamental knowledge of strategy, tactics and logistics necessary to an increased understanding of naval warfare. The helmsman's wheel alludes to the objectives of the Naval War College and the laurel wreath which encircles the wheel symbolizes accomplishment of the mission.

CAMPUS DIRECTORY

The Naval War College's campus includes eight buildings on Coasters Harbor Island in Narragansett Bay, the oldest of which is over 160 years in age.

Founders Hall was built in 1819 by the City of Newport as an alms house. It was donated to the Navy in 1881. The first Naval War College classes were held in it from 1884 to 1892, when the College relocated to the newly-built Luce Hall.

Luce Hall was joined in 1903 by Mahan Hall. In the 1930s, Mahan Hall was enlarged and Pringle Hall was added. The three buildings are connected.

Sims Hall, a barracks built in 1904, was renovated and added to the College in 1946.

Most recent of the College's buildings are Spruance Hall, Conolly Hall and Hewitt Hall, completed in 1972, 1974 and 1976, respectively.

Currently, the buildings contain the following:

Founders Hall	Naval War College Museum
Luce Hall	Naval Command College, Center for Continuing Education, Naval War College Foundation, Inc.

Mahan Hall	Conference Center, Naval Historical Collection
Pringle Hall	Center for Naval Warfare Studies, Naval Staff College Naval War College Review offices, auditorium, graphic arts studio, photo lab
Sims Hall	Center for War Gaming
Spruance Hall	Auditorium, faculty offices, seminar rooms, audio visual workshops, under ground parking
Conolly Hall	President's office, administrative staff offices, faculty offices, seminar and conference rooms, staff lounge, printing and word processing shops, underground parking
Hewitt Hall	Library, bookstore, student study areas, seminar rooms, student lounge, underground parking
